WOMEN & HEALTH INITIATIVE
The Institute for Women’s Leadership Consortium conducts the IWL Consortium Initiative on Women & Health. This initiative recognizes that women’s health around the world is shaped as much by social, economic, political and environmental forces as by biology. The IWL Initiative on Women & Health features a two-year series of courses, activities, and programs designed to stimulate university-wide engagement around this topic.

WOMEN, MEDIA & TECH INITIATIVE
The Institute for Women’s Leadership Consortium and the School of Communication & Information are collaborating on the new Women, Media & Tech Initiative to examine the ways media, including information technology and digital media, are reshaping culture and power relations in the world. The initiative features a series of programs, events and educational opportunities to examine the relationships of media technologies to democracy, social change, gender/racial equality, and public policy.
The Institute for Women’s Leadership is a nine-member consortium within Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, dedicated to the study of women and gender, advocacy on behalf of gender equity and to women’s leadership for a just world. Founded in 1991, the consortium examines leadership issues and advances women’s leadership in education, research, the arts, sciences, politics and government, the workplace and the world.
